Terms and Conditions

All day delegate tickets to the WACSSO Conference (including fully and partially subsidised member tickets) are offered subject to availability, with preference given to orders received earliest. As an affiliate member of WACSSO, you have a constitutional right to register a representative to attend the Annual General Meeting (AGM) held at Conference. If room capacity limitations and existing ticketing obligations prevent your physical attendance, at your written request, we will provide a link for your representative to attend virtually to participate in voting at the AGM.

By paying this invoice, your P&C agrees that WACSSO will keep your information on file and may share select information with trusted third parties solely for the purpose of serving your P&C better (for example, GSK Insurance Brokers to provide you with a quote for insurance, or Life at Work HR Services to provide you with HR support).

We (WACSSO and our employees) are a member-focused, not-for-profit association partnering with P&Cs (you) to advance public education. As WACSSO strives to improve and expand the services we provide to you, it's essential to clarify our position regarding responsibility and liability.

The services we provide are not legal, financial, insurance or professional advice.

Certain insurances may be provided as part of your WACSSO membership <https://www.wacssso.wa.edu.au/resources/insurance-for-pcs/>. Please review the scope of the insurance protection provided, including terms, conditions and limitations and ensure you purchase any additional insurances you may require. At your request, WACSSO may assist in obtaining a quote for additional and optional P&C insurances for your P&C through WACSSO's insurance broker. It is important to note that you are not obligated to utilise WACSSO's insurance broker to obtain these optional insurances. Provision of this service by WACSSO does not constitute an endorsement of the product nor guarantee that the broker or insurance quoted is the optimal choice for your P&C.

Please exercise judgment and seek professional advice where necessary.
